

An Introduction to Archangels

When I first started working with Angels, I was reading a book in the garden and had just turned to a new chapter. My father arrived and as he walked towards me, across my newly laid lawn, I saw him bending and picking up something and when he reached me he handed me a handful of beautiful white feathers. I looked down at the chapter I had just turned to and saw it was entitled 'Feathers'. This was my first conscious experience of Angel whispers, those magical reminders that we are all being loved and cared for.

Feathers are a sign from the Angels and there are many others including butterflies and rainbows. Sometimes you can see magical formations in the clouds such as feathers or a full-blown Angel. I always thought that they would look like fluffy cherubs, but it is the wispy clouds you need to look for. I was driving home from a show and got stuck behind a horsebox. Instead of getting frustrated, I decide just to bumble along behind and that was when I saw my first Angel. It was huge, with a sword and a harp and as the colours of the sunset were beginning to fade, it left a turquoise and blue hue to the sky. There was no doubt in my mind that it was Archangel Michael and I almost ran into the horsebox when I saw it.

The word Angel is derived from the Greek word for Messenger and the halo represents virtue and innocence. The wings represent an Angel's role as a messenger travelling between Heaven and Earth. Originally Angels were not depicted with wings and the earliest example of a winged Angel in art is in a 5th century mosaic in the church of St. Prudencia in Rome. Angels in biblical and ancient non-biblical Jewish and Christian texts are portrayed as spiritual being, superior to humans in both power and knowledge.

In Angelology there are nine choirs of angels divided into three groups of ranks and spheres.

1st Rank, Seraphim, Cherubim and Thrones.

These Angels are entirely turned towards God.

2nd Rank, Dominions, Powers and Authorities.

These Angels know God through their concern for the cosmos.

3rd Rank, Principalities, Archangels and Angels.

These Angels oversee nations, are involved with human beings and know God through his creation.
